

OFFICIAL PRESS RELEASE FOR:

Adam Alva Lowe

EZEKIEL'S PATH: OUR FAMILY'S WALK THROUGH CHILDHOOD LEUKEMIA (THEN AND NOW) SHARES A FAMILY'S JOURNEY OF FAITH AND RESILIENCE

Adam Alva Lowe offers a heartfelt memoir that provides an honest account of childhood leukemia, encouraging families through faith, perseverance, and enduring hope.

New York, NY, July 3, 2026 — Adam Alva Lowe introduces Ezekiel's Path: Our Family's Walk Through Childhood Leukemia (Then and Now), an inspiring memoir that chronicles his family's experience following his young son's diagnosis with childhood leukemia. Through a deeply personal narrative, the book offers readers an intimate look at the emotional, physical, and spiritual realities of caring for a child with a life threatening illness. This updated edition expands upon the family's story with reflections gained through the passing of time and the perspective that comes from years of healing and faith.

Blending personal testimony with honest storytelling, Ezekiel's Path: Our Family's Walk Through Childhood Leukemia (Then and Now) follows the journey that began shortly after Ezekiel's second birthday, when his diagnosis forever changed the lives of those around him. The memoir explores the challenges of chemotherapy, the unseen struggles experienced within the family home, and the emotional burden carried by parents determined to protect their child.

Lowe was inspired to write the book after initially recording his thoughts in a personal journal as a way to process fear, uncertainty, and hope during his son's treatment. What began as a private outlet gradually evolved into a story he believed could encourage others facing similar circumstances. By sharing both the hardships and the moments of grace experienced along the way, he hopes to offer comfort to families navigating difficult medical journeys.

Beyond recounting one family's experience with childhood cancer, the book explores broader themes of resilience, unconditional love, faith, and perseverance. It highlights the unseen sacrifices often made by caregivers while demonstrating how hope can remain present even during life's most difficult seasons. Through honest reflection rather than idealized storytelling, the memoir reminds readers of the strength that can emerge through compassion, community, and unwavering commitment to those we love.

The book is intended for families affected by childhood illness, caregivers, healthcare professionals, faith communities, and readers seeking inspirational memoirs grounded in authentic experience. Individuals searching for encouragement during seasons of uncertainty will find meaningful insight in its pages, while those wishing to better understand the realities of childhood leukemia will gain a compassionate perspective on the challenges families often face behind closed doors.

Adam Alva Lowe is an author whose writing reflects the profound lessons learned through his family's journey with childhood leukemia. Drawing from personal experience, he combines honest storytelling with thoughtful spiritual reflection to encourage others facing adversity. Through Ezekiel's Path: Our Family's Walk Through Childhood Leukemia (Then and Now), Lowe offers a message of hope, faith, and resilience that continues to inspire readers confronting life's most difficult challenges.

The book is now available — secure your copy here: <https://amzn.to/4eXRptg>

For review copies, interview requests, or additional information, please contact:

Adam Alva Lowe

Email: adamlowewrites@gmail.com